

Westlaw.

628 N.W.2d 63
245 Mich.App. 306, 628 N.W.2d 63, 154 Ed. Law Rep. 949
(Cite as: 245 Mich.App. 306, 628 N.W.2d 63)

Page 1

► Court of Appeals of Michigan.
Brent BARRETT, Plaintiff-Appellee,
v.
KIRTLAND COMMUNITY COLLEGE, Defendant-
ant-Appellant,
and
Cary Vajda, Katherine Grosser and Dorothy N.
Franke, Defendants.
Docket No. 217040.

Submitted Oct. 17, 2000, at Lansing.
Decided April 10, 2001, at 9:00 a.m.
Released for Publication June 6, 2001.

Terminated employee sued community college for retaliation and gender discrimination under civil rights statute and for breach of contract. Following jury trial, the Roscommon Circuit Court, Michael J. Matuzak, J., entered judgment for employee and denied community college's motion for judgment notwithstanding the verdict (JNOV) or new trial. Community college appealed. The Court of Appeals, Zahra, J., held that: (1) employee's filing of civil rights complaints concerning treatment by supervisor did not cause adverse employment action, as necessary to support retaliation claim; (2) oral complaint to community college's president was not a "charge" of sex discrimination under civil rights statute and thus did not support retaliation claim; (3) prohibition against discrimination based on sex does not include conduct based on romantic jealousy, and therefore the allegedly adverse treatment by supervisor upon learning that employee was romantically involved with coworker whom supervisor had asked on a date was not sex discrimination; (4) conduct of community college, in reporting to police that college-owned books and files were missing from office where employee had worked, was not in retaliation for employee's filing of civil rights complaints; and (5) exclusion of evidence concerning several incidents of employee's misconduct was not abuse of discretion with respect to breach of contract claim.

Affirmed in part, reversed in part, and remanded.

West Headnotes

[1] Appeal and Error 30 ↗893(1)

30 Appeal and Error
30XVI Review
30XVI(F) Trial De Novo
30k892 Trial De Novo
30k893 Cases Triable in Appellate Court
30k893(1) k. In General. Most Cited Cases
A trial court's decision to grant or deny a motion for judgment notwithstanding the verdict (JNOV) is reviewed de novo.

[2] Appeal and Error 30 ↗934(1)

30 Appeal and Error
30XVI Review
30XVI(G) Presumptions
30k934 Judgment
30k934(1) k. In General. Most Cited Cases
In reviewing a decision on a motion for judgment notwithstanding the verdict (JNOV), Court of Appeals must view the testimony and all legitimate inferences in the light most favorable to the nonmoving party.

[3] Judgment 228 ↗199(3.5)

228 Judgment
228VI On Trial of Issues
228VI(A) Rendition, Form, and Requisites in General
228k199 Notwithstanding Verdict
228k199(3.5) k. Propriety of Judgment in General. Most Cited Cases
In context of motion for judgment notwithstanding the verdict (JNOV), if reasonable jurors honestly

628 N.W.2d 63
 245 Mich.App. 306, 628 N.W.2d 63, 154 Ed. Law Rep. 949
 (Cite as: 245 Mich.App. 306, 628 N.W.2d 63)

could have reached different conclusions, jury verdict must stand.

[4] Judgment 228 ↪199(3.10)

228 Judgment

228VI On Trial of Issues

228VI(A) Rendition, Form, and Requisites in General

228k199 Notwithstanding Verdict

228k199(3.10) k. Where There Is No Evidence to Sustain Verdict. Most Cited Cases Only if the evidence fails to establish a claim as a matter of law is judgment notwithstanding the verdict (JNOV) appropriate.

[5] Statutes 361 ↪181(1)

361 Statutes

361VI Construction and Operation

361VI(A) General Rules of Construction

361k180 Intention of Legislature

361k181 In General

361k181(1) k. In General. Most Cited Cases

Primary goal of judicial interpretation is to ascertain and give effect to the intent of the Legislature.

[6] Statutes 361 ↪188

361 Statutes

361VI Construction and Operation

361VI(A) General Rules of Construction

361k187 Meaning of Language

361k188 k. In General. Most Cited Cases

If the plain and ordinary meaning of a statute is clear, judicial construction is neither necessary nor permitted.

[7] Statutes 361 ↪181(1)

361 Statutes

361VI Construction and Operation

361VI(A) General Rules of Construction

361k180 Intention of Legislature

361k181 In General

361k181(1) k. In General. Most Cited Cases

Courts may not speculate about the probable intent of the Legislature beyond the words expressed in the statute.

[8] Statutes 361 ↪179

361 Statutes

361VI Construction and Operation

361VI(A) General Rules of Construction

361k177 Constitutional and Statutory Rules and Provisions

361k179 k. Interpretation Clauses and Definitions in Statutes Construed. Most Cited Cases If a statute provides its own glossary, the terms must be applied as expressly defined.

[9] Statutes 361 ↪184

361 Statutes

361VI Construction and Operation

361VI(A) General Rules of Construction

361k180 Intention of Legislature

361k184 k. Policy and Purpose of Act.

Most Cited Cases

When reasonable minds may differ with respect to the meaning of a statute, the courts must look to the object of the statute and the harm it is designed to remedy and apply a reasonable construction that best accomplishes the purpose of the statute.

[10] Courts 106 ↪97(5)

106 Courts

106II Establishment, Organization, and Procedure

106II(G) Rules of Decision

106k88 Previous Decisions as Controlling or as Precedents

106k97 Decisions of United States Courts as Authority in State Courts

106k97(5) k. Construction of Federal Constitution, Statutes, and Treaties. Most Cited Cases

While Court of Appeals is not bound by federal

628 N.W.2d 63
245 Mich.App. 306, 628 N.W.2d 63, 154 Ed. Law Rep. 949
(Cite as: 245 Mich.App. 306, 628 N.W.2d 63)

precedent based on Title VII when interpreting similar provisions of state civil rights statute, those precedents analogous to questions presented under the state statute are persuasive and will be afforded substantial consideration. Civil Rights Act of 1964, § 701 et seq., 42 U.S.C.A. § 2000e et seq.; M.C.L.A. § 37.2101 et seq.

[11] Courts 106 ↗97(1)

106 Courts

106II Establishment, Organization, and Procedure

106II(G) Rules of Decision

106k88 Previous Decisions as Controlling or as Precedents

106k97 Decisions of United States Courts as Authority in State Courts

106k97(1) k. In General. Most Cited Cases

While Court of Appeals, in interpreting state statute, may look for guidance in federal interpretations of similar laws, it must not defer to federal interpretations when doing so would be inconsistent with any portion of Legislature's enactment.

[12] Civil Rights 78 ↗1252

78 Civil Rights

78II Employment Practices

78k1241 Retaliation for Exercise of Rights

78k1252 k. Causal Connection; Temporal Proximity. Most Cited Cases

(Formerly 255k30(6.10) Master and Servant)

To establish causation in a claim of retaliation asserted under civil rights statute, plaintiff must show that his participation in activity protected by the statute was a significant factor in the employer's adverse employment action, not just that there was a causal link between the two. M.C.L.A. § 37.2701 (a).

[13] Colleges and Universities 81 ↗8.1(3)

81 Colleges and Universities

81k8 Staff and Faculty

81k8.1 Duration of Employment and Removal or Other Discipline

81k8.1(3) k. Grounds for Termination. Most Cited Cases

Community college employee's filing of civil rights complaints concerning treatment by supervisor did not cause subsequent termination and nonrenewal of employment contract and thus did not support retaliation claim asserted against community college under civil rights statute, where president sent memo to board of trustees eight days prior to that filing in which president suggested employee should be fired and stated he would not be recommending renewal of employee's contract. M.C.L.A. § 37.2701(a).

[14] Colleges and Universities 81 ↗8.1(3)

81 Colleges and Universities

81k8 Staff and Faculty

81k8.1 Duration of Employment and Removal or Other Discipline

81k8.1(3) k. Grounds for Termination. Most Cited Cases

Letter to community college employee from supervisor's counsel, in which counsel claimed that employee was spreading defamatory rumors about supervisor and demanded that employee retract those statements, did not support retaliation claim asserted by employee under civil rights statute; employee did not present evidence that supervisor's counsel was acting on behalf of the employer or that counsel's demand constituted an action that adversely affected employee's employment situation. M.C.L.A. § 37.2701(a).

[15] Civil Rights 78 ↗1031

78 Civil Rights

78I Rights Protected and Discrimination Prohibited in General

78k1030 Acts or Conduct Causing Deprivation

78k1031 k. In General. Most Cited Cases

(Formerly 78k110.1)

Plaintiff cannot prevail on a claim of retaliation in

628 N.W.2d 63
 245 Mich.App. 306, 628 N.W.2d 63, 154 Ed. Law Rep. 949
 (Cite as: 245 Mich.App. 306, 628 N.W.2d 63)

violation of the civil rights statute without establishing that he engaged in activity protected under the act. M.C.L.A. § 37.2701(a).

[16] Colleges and Universities 81 ↪ 8.1(3)

81 Colleges and Universities

81k8 Staff and Faculty

81k8.1 Duration of Employment and Removal or Other Discipline

81k8.1(3) k. Grounds for Termination.

Most Cited Cases

Oral complaint to community college's president by college employee concerning treatment by supervisor was not a "charge" of gender-based discrimination under civil rights statute and thus did not support retaliation claim based on employee's subsequent termination, where employee complained that adverse treatment began after supervisor learned employee was romantically involved with coworker whom supervisor had asked on a date, but did not complain that he was subjected to any conduct from supervisor of a sexual nature and did not complain that he was treated differently because of his gender. M.C.L.A. § 37.2701(a).

[17] Civil Rights 78 ↪ 1244

78 Civil Rights

78II Employment Practices

78k1241 Retaliation for Exercise of Rights

78k1244 k. Activities Protected. Most

Cited Cases

(Formerly 255k30(6.10) Master and Servant)

An employee, when complaining to employer about allegedly discriminatory working conditions, need not specifically cite civil rights statute in order for such complaints to constitute a "charge" and be protected under that statute against retaliation by employer; however, the employee must do more than generally assert unfair treatment. M.C.L.A. § 37.2701(a).

[18] Civil Rights 78 ↪ 1244

78 Civil Rights

78II Employment Practices

78k1241 Retaliation for Exercise of Rights

78k1244 k. Activities Protected. Most Cited Cases

(Formerly 255k30(6.10) Master and Servant)

Employee's discrimination charge, in order to support a retaliation claim under civil rights statute with respect to subsequent adverse action by employer, must clearly convey to an objective employer that the employee is raising the specter of a claim of unlawful discrimination pursuant to civil rights statute. M.C.L.A. § 37.2701(a).

[19] Civil Rights 78 ↪ 1184

78 Civil Rights

78II Employment Practices

78k1181 Sexual Harassment; Work Environment

78k1184 k. Quid Pro Quo. Most Cited Cases

(Formerly 78k167)

Civil Rights 78 ↪ 1185

78 Civil Rights

78II Employment Practices

78k1181 Sexual Harassment; Work Environment

78k1185 k. Hostile Environment; Severity, Pervasiveness, and Frequency. Most Cited Cases

(Formerly 78k167)

As prohibited under civil rights statute, "sexually-based harassment" as a condition of employment refers to both quid pro quo harassment and hostile environment harassment. M.C.L.A. §§ 37.2103(i), 37.2201(d), 37.2202(1).

[20] Civil Rights 78 ↪ 1011

78 Civil Rights

78I Rights Protected and Discrimination Prohibited in General

78k1007 Bases of Discrimination and Classes Protected

628 N.W.2d 63
 245 Mich.App. 306, 628 N.W.2d 63, 154 Ed. Law Rep. 949
 (Cite as: 245 Mich.App. 306, 628 N.W.2d 63)

78k1011 k. Sex. Most Cited Cases
 (Formerly 78k105(1))

Civil Rights 78 ↗1015

78 Civil Rights

78I Rights Protected and Discrimination Prohibited in General

78k1007 Bases of Discrimination and Classes Protected

78k1015 k. Other Particular Bases or Classes. Most Cited Cases

(Formerly 78k105(1))

Civil rights statute does not, in prohibiting discrimination based on sex, prohibit conduct based on romantic jealousy. M.C.L.A. §§ 37.2103(i), 37.2201(d), 37.2202(1).

[21] Statutes 361 ↗184

361 Statutes

361VI Construction and Operation

361VI(A) General Rules of Construction

361k180 Intention of Legislature

361k184 k. Policy and Purpose of Act.

Most Cited Cases

Liberal construction of an act must be a reasonable construction that best accomplishes its purpose.

[22] Civil Rights 78 ↗1180

78 Civil Rights

78II Employment Practices

78k1164 Sex Discrimination in General

78k1180 k. Same-Sex Discrimination.

Most Cited Cases

(Formerly 78k165)

Colleges and Universities 81 ↗8.1(3)

81 Colleges and Universities

81k8 Staff and Faculty

81k8.1 Duration of Employment and Removal or Other Discipline

81k8.1(3) k. Grounds for Termination.

Most Cited Cases

Supervisor's alleged adverse treatment of community college employee, which purportedly began after supervisor learned that employee was romantically involved with female coworker whom supervisor had asked on a date, was not "discrimination based on sex" under civil rights statute, even if supervisor intended to eliminate employee in order to pursue that coworker's affections, and thus employee's reporting of adverse treatment to college's president was not protected under that statute against retaliation by college. M.C.L.A. §§ 37.2103(i), 37.2201(d), 37.2202(1), 37.2701(a).

[23] Civil Rights 78 ↗1243

78 Civil Rights

78II Employment Practices

78k1241 Retaliation for Exercise of Rights

78k1243 k. Practices Prohibited or Required in General; Elements. Most Cited Cases

(Formerly 255k30(6.10) Master and Servant)

Prohibition against retaliation for engaging in protected activity, as contained in civil rights statute, protects former as well as current employees. M.C.L.A. § 37.2701(a).

[24] Colleges and Universities 81 ↗8.1(3)

81 Colleges and Universities

81k8 Staff and Faculty

81k8.1 Duration of Employment and Removal or Other Discipline

81k8.1(3) k. Grounds for Termination.

Most Cited Cases

Conduct of community college, in reporting to police that college-owned books and files were missing from office where former employee had worked, was not in retaliation for employee's filing of civil rights complaints and thus did not support a claim of posttermination retaliation under civil rights statute, where employee acknowledged that he took several boxes of property from office after his employment was terminated, and boxes were found to contain hundreds of college directories and files and relatively few of employee's personal items. M.C.L.A. § 37.2701(a).

628 N.W.2d 63
 245 Mich.App. 306, 628 N.W.2d 63, 154 Ed. Law Rep. 949
 (Cite as: 245 Mich.App. 306, 628 N.W.2d 63)

[25] Appeal and Error 30 ~~30k~~970(2)

30 Appeal and Error

30XVI Review

30XVI(H) Discretion of Lower Court

30k970 Reception of Evidence

30k970(2) k. Rulings on Admissibility of Evidence in General. Most Cited Cases
 A trial court's decision to admit or exclude evidence is reviewed for an abuse of discretion.

[26] Courts 106 ~~30k~~26

106 Courts

106I Nature, Extent, and Exercise of Jurisdiction in General

106k26 k. Scope and Extent of Jurisdiction in General. Most Cited Cases

An abuse of discretion is found only in extreme cases in which the result is so palpably and grossly violative of fact and logic that it evidences perversity of will, a defiance of judgment, or the exercise of passion or bias.

[27] Colleges and Universities 81 ~~30k~~10

81 Colleges and Universities

81k10 k. Actions. Most Cited Cases

Exclusion of evidence concerning several incidents of community college employee's misconduct was not abuse of discretion in breach of contract action brought by employee following his termination, where community college's president testified at trial that her poor opinion of employee was based on her personal experiences dealing with him as well as input from other administrators, and there was substantial testimony that employee was uncooperative and often refused direct orders.

*66*308 Robert J. Krupka and Michael J. Forster, Saginaw, for the plaintiff.

Thrun, Maatsch and Nordberg, P.C. (by Martha J. Marcero and Roy H. Henley), Lansing, for the defendant.

Before HOLBROOK, Jr., P.J., and SAWYER and ZAHRA, JJ.

ZAHRA, J.

Defendant Kirtland Community College (KCC) appeals as of right from an order denying its motion for judgment notwithstanding the verdict (JNOV) or a new trial. *67 We affirm in part, reverse in part, and remand for further proceedings consistent with this opinion.

I. FACTS

Plaintiff was hired by KCC in February 1992 as part-time cultural events coordinator. In September 1992, plaintiff signed a one-year contract to serve as KCC's full-time coordinator of cultural events/activities. In September 1993, plaintiff signed another one-year contract to remain in that position. That second contract 309 was to expire on September 17, 1994. Plaintiff's duties as full-time coordinator of cultural events/activities included planning performances at KCC's theater, running the theater's box office, contracting with performers, producing shows at the theater, and completing accounting duties with respect to the performances. Plaintiff's coordinator position was not a faculty position.

Defendant Cary Vajda was KCC's dean of student services and plaintiff's immediate supervisor at all times pertinent to this case. Defendant Katherine Grosser was KCC's dean of business services and defendant Dorothy Franke was president of KCC during plaintiff's employment.^{FN1}

FN1. The parties eventually stipulated to dismiss defendants Vajda, Grosser, and Franke from plaintiff's suit and those individuals are not parties to this appeal.

In October 1993, Vajda asked KCC employee Allison Goshorn on a date. Vajda did not know Goshorn was romantically involved with plaintiff at the time he asked her out. Plaintiff claimed that the quality of his working relationship with Vajda declined once Vajda discovered the nature of Goshorn's relationship with plaintiff. As a result, plaintiff filed three complaints with the Michigan Department of Civil Rights (MDCR), charging gender discrimination and retaliation under the Civil Rights Act (CRA), M.C.L. § 37.2101 et seq.; MSA 3.548(101) et seq. Plaintiff claimed that he suffered psychological and physical problems as a result of continual adverse treatment by Vajda. Those problems prompted plaintiff to take a personal leave from his job in May 1994 and a later unpaid leave under the Family Medical Leave Act (FMLA), 29 U.S.C. § 2601 et seq. During the time plaintiff was on leave, the coordinator of cultural *310 events/activities position was reconfigured by KCC administrators into a faculty position.^{FN2} Plaintiff applied for the new position, but was not hired. On September 13, 1994 (four days before the expiration of his employment contract), plaintiff returned from his leave and was discharged by Franke after a short meeting. In a letter Franke wrote to plaintiff on the date of his discharge, she stated that plaintiff's "[c]ontinued insubordination" and his "[a]bandonment of position" were the reasons for his discharge. Franke specified that plaintiff's insubordination included failing to return keys to KCC facilities despite being directed to do so on four separate occasions and refusing to provide proof of attendance at a meeting for which plaintiff sought travel expenses. Franke further specified that plaintiff abandoned his position by failing to return to work after his doctor indicated he was able to return on September 6, 1994, and by failing to notify KCC personnel to discuss returning to his job.

628 N.W.2d 63
 245 Mich.App. 306, 628 N.W.2d 63, 154 Ed. Law Rep. 949
 (Cite as: 245 Mich.App. 306, 628 N.W.2d 63)

FN2. That reconfiguration did not affect the duration of plaintiff's employment contract that was to expire on September 17, 1994.

In October 1995, plaintiff filed this lawsuit, alleging breach of employment contract, violation of the FMLA, gender discrimination under the CRA, retaliation under the CRA, and defamation. Plaintiff's retaliation, breach of contract, and 68 FMLA claims went to trial.^{FN3} The jury found no violation of the FMLA. However, the jury found that KCC retaliated against plaintiff and assessed damages of $99,960 in regard to that claim. The jury also found that KCC breached plaintiff's employment contract. Pursuant to the parties' agreement, the trial *311 court assessed damages in connection with the breach of contract verdict, determining damages in the amount of $750. KCC brought a motion for JNOV or, alternatively, for a new trial, arguing that there was no evidence of a causal link between protected activity by plaintiff and adverse actions taken by KCC, nor evidence that plaintiff was terminated without just cause or that his employment contract was otherwise breached.^{FN4} The trial court denied KCC's motion. Thereafter, the court assessed $46,500 in attorney fees and $986 in costs with respect to the retaliation claim.

FN3. The other claims were dismissed pursuant to a motion for summary disposition and are not subject to this appeal.

FN4. Defendant's only argument on appeal relating to the breach of contract claim is that the trial court erroneously excluded evidence that would have established that plaintiff's employment was terminated for cause. We note that defendant's argument below on a motion in limine and its argument on appeal regarding the effect of after-acquired evidence pertains only to damages on plaintiff's retaliation claim. Thus, we do not consider that argument in regard to plaintiff's breach of contract claim. As more fully set forth later in this opinion, we conclude that the trial court did not abuse its discretion by excluding the evidence defendant sought to introduce at trial.

II. LEGAL ANALYSIS

628 N.W.2d 63
 245 Mich.App. 306, 628 N.W.2d 63, 154 Ed. Law Rep. 949
 (Cite as: 245 Mich.App. 306, 628 N.W.2d 63)

A. Retaliation in Violation of M.C.L. § 37.2701(a);
 MSA 3.548(701)(a)

On appeal, KCC argues that the trial court erred in denying its motion for JNOV with respect to plaintiff's retaliation claim. We agree.

[1][2][3][4] A trial court's decision to grant or deny a motion for JNOV is reviewed de novo. Attard v. Citizens Ins. Co. of America, 237 Mich.App. 311, 321, 602 N.W.2d 633 (1999); Farm Credit Services of Michigan's Heartland, PCA v. Weldon, 232 Mich.App. 662, 672, 591 N.W.2d 438 (1998). In reviewing a decision on a motion for JNOV, this Court must view the testimony and all legitimate inferences in the light most favorable to *312 the nonmoving party. Forge v. Smith, 458 Mich. 198, 204, 580 N.W.2d 876 (1998). If reasonable jurors honestly could have reached different conclusions, the jury verdict must stand. Central Cartage Co. v. Fewless, 232 Mich.App. 517, 524, 591 N.W.2d 422 (1998). Only if the evidence fails to establish a claim as a matter of law is JNOV appropriate. Forge, supra.

The CRA provides, in part:

An employer shall not do any of the following:

(a) Fail or refuse to hire or recruit, discharge, or otherwise discriminate against an individual with respect to employment, compensation or a term, condition, or privilege of employment, because of religion, race, color, national origin, age, sex, height, weight, or marital status.

(b) Limit, segregate, or classify an employee or applicant for employment in a way that deprives or tends to deprive the employee or applicant of an employment opportunity, or otherwise adversely affects the status of an employee or applicant because of religion, race, color, national origin, age, sex, height, weight, or marital status. [MCL 37.2202(1)(a) and (b); MSA 3.548(202)(1)(a) and (b).]

69 The CRA also prohibits an employer from retaliating against an employee for pursuing rights under the CRA, stating:

Two or more persons shall not conspire to, or a person shall not:

(a) Retaliate or discriminate against a person because the person has opposed a violation of this act, or because the person has made a charge, filed a complaint, testified, assisted, or participated in an investigation, proceeding, or hearing under this act. [MCL 37.2701(a); MSA 3.548(701)(a).]

*313 1. Claims of pretermination retaliation

In the trial court, plaintiff asserted that his job was reconfigured and he was eventually discharged in retaliation for complaining to Franke about Vajda's adverse treatment of him and for filing complaints with the MDCR. FN5 On appeal, KCC claims that plaintiff did not engage in protected activity under the CRA that could be said to have led to any adverse employment action.

FN5. While plaintiff claimed in the trial court that KCC's reconfiguration of the coordinator of cultural events/activities position and his discharge were both retaliatory actions taken by KCC that adversely affected plaintiff's employment, only plaintiff's discharge can form the legal basis of a retaliation claim. The reconfiguration of plaintiff's coordinator position to a faculty position did not affect plaintiff's employment. Plaintiff's employment contract was set to end September 17, 1994, and no action on the part of KCC other than plaintiff's discharge on September 13, 1994, precluded plaintiff from returning to his position before that date. See Meyer v. Center Line, 242 Mich.App. 560, 569, 619 N.W.2d 182 (2000) (recognizing that an adverse employment action must be materially adverse and must have an objective basis for demonstrating that the change is adverse, “rather than the mere subjective impressions of the plaintiff.”) Plaintiff also claims that Franke’s failure to put a stop to Vajda’s adverse treatment after she was informed of Vajda’s alleged conduct was, itself, an adverse employment action. See id. at 569-571, 619 N.W.2d 182. Franke’s inaction cannot serve as the basis for plaintiff’s retaliation claim because, as will be discussed in greater detail, the conduct about which plaintiff complained to Franke did not fall within the scope of the CRA.

628 N.W.2d 63
 245 Mich.App. 306, 628 N.W.2d 63, 154 Ed. Law Rep. 949
 (Cite as: 245 Mich.App. 306, 628 N.W.2d 63)

[5][6][7][8][9] We read the CRA in light of the primary goal of judicial interpretation, which is to ascertain and give effect to the intent of the Legislature. Radtke v. Everett, 442 Mich. 368, 386, 501 N.W.2d 155 (1993). If the plain and ordinary meaning of a statute is clear, judicial construction is neither necessary nor permitted. Cherry Growers, Inc. v. Agricultural Marketing & Bargaining Bd., 240 Mich.App. 153, 166, 610 N.W.2d 613 (2000). We may not speculate about the probable intent of the Legislature beyond the words expressed *314 in the statute. In re Schnell, 214 Mich.App. 304, 310, 543 N.W.2d 11 (1995). If a statute provides its own glossary, the terms must be applied as expressly defined. Tryc v. Michigan Veterans’ Facility, 451 Mich. 129, 136, 545 N.W.2d 642 (1996). When reasonable minds may differ with respect to the meaning of a statute, the courts must look to the object of the statute and the harm it is designed to remedy and apply a reasonable construction that best accomplishes the purpose of the statute. Marquis v. Hartford Accident & Indemnity (After Remand), 444 Mich. 638, 644, 513 N.W.2d 799 (1994).

[10][11] In interpreting provisions of the CRA, we are guided by federal court interpretations of the counterpart federal statute. Chambers v. Tretco, Inc., 463 Mich. 297, 313, 614 N.W.2d 910 (2000); see title VII of the federal Civil Rights Act of 1964, 42 U.S.C. § 2000e et seq.^{FN6} While we 70 are not bound by federal precedent based on title VII, those precedents analogous to questions presented under the CRA are persuasive and will be afforded substantial consideration by this Court. DeFlavii v. Lord & Taylor, Inc., 223 Mich.App. 432, 437, 566 N.W.2d 661 (1997), citing McCalla v. Ellis, 180 Mich.App. 372, 377-378, 446 N.W.2d 904 (1989). However, we are always primarily obligated when interpreting Michigan law to ascertain and give effect to the intent of the Michigan Legislature. Chambers, supra at 314, 614 N.W.2d 910. Therefore, while we may look for guidance in federal interpretations of similar laws, we must not defer to federal interpretations when doing *315 so would be inconsistent with any portion of our Legislature’s enactment. Id.; Chiles v. Machine Shop, Inc., 238 Mich.App. 462, 472-473, 606 N.W.2d 398 (1999).

FN6. Title VII prohibits discrimination in employment “against any individual with respect to his compensation, terms, conditions, or privileges of employment, because of such individual’s race, color, religion, sex, or national origin.” 42 U.S.C. § 2000e-2(a)(1).

[12] This Court has interpreted the retaliation provision of the CRA, M.C.L. § 37.2701(a); MSA 3.548(701)(a), to require that a plaintiff prove a prima facie case by showing:

(1) that the plaintiff engaged in a protected activity, (2) that this was known by the defendant, (3) that the defendant took an employment action adverse to the plaintiff, and (4) that there was a causal connection between the protected activity and the adverse employment action. [Meyer v. Center Line, 242 Mich.App. 560, 568-569, 619 N.W.2d 182 (2000), citing DeFlavii, supra at 436, 566 N.W.2d 661.]

To establish causation, the plaintiff must show that his participation in activity protected by the CRA was a “significant factor” in the employer’s adverse employment action, not just that there was a causal link between the two. Jacklyn v. Schering-Plough

628 N.W.2d 63

245 Mich.App. 306, 628 N.W.2d 63, 154 Ed. Law Rep. 949

(Cite as: 245 Mich.App. 306, 628 N.W.2d 63)

EXHIBIT U to DEF'S MSJ
Page 10

Healthcare Products Sales Corp., 176 F.3d 921, 929 (C.A.6, 1999); Polk v. Yellow Freight System, Inc., 801 F.2d 190, 199 (C.A.6, 1986).

(a) Retaliation based on the filing of formal complaints with the MDCR

In the present case, plaintiff's conduct of filing complaints with the MDCR on March 11, 1994, May 12, 1994, and September 16, 1994, charging gender discrimination and retaliation was "protected activity" for purposes of a retaliation claim. See M.C.L. § 37.2701(a); MSA 3.548(701)(a) (prohibiting retaliation "because the person has ... filed a complaint ... under this act.") These complaints became known to KCC. Subsequently, plaintiff's employment was terminated. Thus, *316 plaintiff presented sufficient evidence to satisfy the first three elements of his claim of retaliation. In order for plaintiff to prevail on his retaliation claim, he must establish causation.

[13][14] The record is void of any evidence of causation with respect to the MDCR complaints. The undisputed evidence establishes that Franke considered discharging plaintiff and had definitely decided not to renew plaintiff's contract before plaintiff filed any of the three complaints. Plaintiff did not dispute Franke's trial testimony that she was the only KCC administrator with authority to discharge employees. A memo written by Franke, dated March 3, 1994, and sent to KCC's board of trustees, stated that plaintiff was having problems accepting direction and responsibility and had a generally "poor attitude." Franke specified: "If all this spells 'fire' to you, it does to me, also.... I 71 can tell you for sure that I won't be recommending renewal for his contract which ends in September." *317 Given the content of that memo, plaintiff's filing of the MDCR complaints commencing on March 11, 1994, cannot be said to have been a "significant factor" in Franke's decision not to renew plaintiff's contract or to discharge plaintiff. See Jacklyn, supra, and Polk, supra. Consequently, those filings cannot form the basis of a retaliation claim. Meyer, supra.^{FN8}

FN7. Franke testified that around the time she drafted the memo, she believed plaintiff's future at KCC was "dim." She acknowledged that her opinion of plaintiff was based, in part, on conversations she had with Vajda. We recognize that plaintiff alleged Vajda was motivated to lie about plaintiff's conduct. However, the mere fact that Vajda commented on plaintiff's conduct does not necessarily create an issue of fact. See Krohn v. Sedgwick James of Michigan, Inc., 244 Mich.App. 289, 300-301, 624 N.W.2d 212 (2001) (holding that a stray remark by an employee not involved in the employer's decision to discharge the plaintiff cannot be attributed as proof of the employer's motivation for the discharge). Moreover, even assuming that Vajda lied to Franke regarding plaintiff's conduct, Vajda's lies were not, under plaintiff's own theory, motivated by plaintiff's complaints, but rather were motivated by his romantic jealousy. For reasons more fully set forth in this opinion, action based on romantic jealousy is not prohibited under the CRA and a retaliation claim based on such action cannot stand. Further, there was evidence that Franke relied significantly on her own experience and on the input of administrators other than Vajda in forming her opinion of plaintiff. Franke recalled that, in December 1993, administrators discussed plaintiff's lack of cooperation in regard to his incurring additional travel expense when returning from a business trip. She also testified that she became involved in scheduling theater performances because the public was unhappy with prior performances put on by plaintiff. Franke further indicated that her opinion of plaintiff was affected by KCC controller Ed Koliba's experiences with plaintiff. Koliba testified at trial that plaintiff was “very uncooperative” when Koliba tried to work with him to establish an accounting system. Franke also testified that plaintiff’s job assessment (presumably one compiled by Vajda) was “not very big” a factor in her termination decision. Franke made clear that plaintiff’s insubordination in refusing her demand that he turn over his keys on the date he returned from his leave was the biggest factor in her decision to fire plaintiff. Testimony at trial established that KCC administrators sought return of the keys several times during plaintiff’s leave and on the date that he returned to work because they were concerned with thefts of theater equipment. Franke specified that she did not consult Vajda directly before terminating plaintiff’s employment.

628 N.W.2d 63

245 Mich.App. 306, 628 N.W.2d 63, 154 Ed. Law Rep. 949

(Cite as: 245 Mich.App. 306, 628 N.W.2d 63)

FN8. Plaintiff also argues that a letter dated May 3, 1994, from Vajda’s attorney to plaintiff constitutes evidence of retaliation directly related to plaintiff’s March 11, 1994, MDCR complaint about Vajda. Vajda’s counsel claimed that plaintiff was spreading defamatory rumors about Vajda and demanded that plaintiff retract the statements. We conclude that this correspondence does not, as a matter of law, support a claim of retaliation in violation of M.C.L. § 37.2701(a); MSA 3.548(701)(a). In order for plaintiff to prevail on a claim of retaliation he must establish that “the defendant took an employment action adverse to the plaintiff.” Meyer, supra. Plaintiff did not present evidence that Vajda’s counsel was acting on behalf of KCC (defendant) or that counsel’s demand constituted an action that adversely affected plaintiff’s employment situation.

(b) Retaliation based on an oral complaint

The relevant question, therefore, is whether plaintiff engaged in any protected activity before Franke’s drafting of the March 3, 1994, memo. Plaintiff presented evidence that soon after Vajda became *318 aware of his relationship with Goshorn, Vajda severed direct communication with him, created new employment policies pertaining only to him, and enforced old policies that were not previously enforced with respect to other employees.^{FN9} Plaintiff 72 claims that he disclosed Vajda’s adverse treatment to Franke during a meeting in January 1994. He contends that Franke’s failure to put a stop to Vajda’s adverse treatment of him was, itself, an adverse employment action sufficient to support a retaliation claim.

FN9. Policies to which only plaintiff was allegedly subject included keeping detailed, daily time logs, returning college-owned equipment that he was using at his home, and complying with strict directives regarding travel expenses.

[15] Plaintiff cannot prevail on a claim of retaliation in violation of the CRA without establishing that he engaged in activity protected under the act. Meyer, supra. MCL 37.2701(a); MSA 3.548(701)(a) specifically defines the type of activity protected under the CRA. As it relates to this action, the CRA specifically prohibits retaliation or discrimination because “the person has opposed a violation of this act, or because the person has made a charge ... under this act.” Applying M.C.L. § 37.2701(a); MSA 3.548(701)(a) to the facts of this case, we must determine whether plaintiff’s oral complaint to Franke in January 1994 amounted to a charge made under the CRA or opposition to a violation of the CRA. We conclude that it did not.

(i) Plaintiff did not make a charge under the CRA

[16][17][18] Plaintiff did not take any action that could be construed as a “charge” under the act. An employee need not specifically cite the CRA when making a charge *319 under the act. However, the employee must do more than generally assert unfair

628 N.W.2d 63

245 Mich.App. 306, 628 N.W.2d 63, 154 Ed. Law Rep. 949

(Cite as: 245 Mich.App. 306, 628 N.W.2d 63)

EXHIBIT U to DEF'S MSJ
Page 12

treatment. See Mitan v. Neiman Marcus, 240 Mich.App. 679, 682, 613 N.W.2d 415 (2000) (holding complaints amounting to generic claims of "job discrimination" did not qualify as a charge made under the Persons with Disabilities Act, M.C.L. § 37.1101^{et seq.}; MSA 3.550[101] et seq.). The employee's charge must clearly convey to an objective employer that the employee is raising the specter of a claim of unlawful discrimination pursuant to the CRA. McLemore v. Detroit Receiving Hosp. & Univ. Medical Center, 196 Mich.App. 391, 396, 493 N.W.2d 441 (1992). Plaintiff's oral complaint to Franke in January 1994 failed to meet this standard. Plaintiff alleges unlawful discrimination because of sex.^{FN10} According to plaintiff, he complained to Franke that Vajda had severely limited or closed the line of communication between Vajda and plaintiff. Plaintiff further claimed Vajda had implemented policies that were enforced only with respect to plaintiff. Plaintiff asserted Vajda's conduct changed after Vajda discovered plaintiff and Goshorn were involved romantically. Plaintiff never complained that he was subjected to any physical or verbal conduct of a sexual nature relating to either plaintiff or Goshorn. Nor did plaintiff complain that he was treated differently because of his gender. Under these circumstances, an objective employer could not conclude that plaintiff was raising the specter of a claim pursuant to the CRA. Rather, the evidence merely established that plaintiff was asserting generic, non-sex-based complaints regarding his *320 working conditions and that those complaints were not based on sex.

FN10. Discrimination because of sex includes quid pro quo harassment, hostile environment harassment, and gender-based discrimination. See M.C.L. § 37.2103(i); MSA 3.548(103)(i) and Chambers, supra at 310, 614 N.W.2d 910.

(ii) Plaintiff did not oppose a violation of the CRA

Plaintiff claims he opposed a violation of the CRA. Specifically, he claims Vajda's alleged adverse treatment of him constituted73 discrimination based on sex, in violation of M.C.L. § 37.2202(1); MSA 3.548(202)(1). The Legislature provided a nonexhaustive definition of the phrase "discrimination because of sex":

Discrimination because of sex includes sexual harassment. Sexual harassment means unwelcome sexual advances, requests for sexual favors, and other verbal or physical conduct or communication of a sexual nature under the following conditions:

(i) Submission to the conduct or communication is made a term or condition either explicitly or implicitly to obtain employment, public accommodations or public services, education, or housing.

(ii) Submission to or rejection of the conduct or communication by an individual is used as a factor in decisions affecting the individual's employment, public accommodations or public services, education, or housing.

(iii) The conduct or communication has the purpose or effect of substantially interfering with an individual's employment, public accommodations or public services, education, or housing, or creating an intimidating, hostile, or offensive employment, public accommodations, public services, educational, or housing environment. [MCL 37.2103(i); MSA 3.548(103)(i).]

The definition section of the act also provides the following in regard to the term "sex": " 'Sex' includes, but is not limited to, pregnancy, childbirth, or a medical condition related to pregnancy or childbirth...." M.C.L. § 37.2201(d); MSA 3.548(201)(d).

[19] *321 This Court has held that the CRA is not so broad as to bar all conduct that is in anyway related to sex. See Barbour v. Dep't of Social Services, 198 Mich.App. 183, 185-186, 497 N.W.2d 216 (1993) (holding that the CRA does not prohibit discrimination based on sexual orientation). Moreover, federal courts have consistently held that sex-based discrimination prohibited in title VII refers to the conduct of requiring an employee to submit to sexually-based harassment as a condition of employment ^{FN11} or discrimination based on gender, not discrimination based on sexual affiliations or relationships. See Succar v. Dade Co. School Bd., 229 F.3d 1343, 1345 (C.A.11, 2000), Taken v. Oklahoma Corp. Comm., 125 F.3d 1366, 1369-1370 (C.A.10, 1997), DeCintio v. Westchester Co. Medical Center, 807 F.2d 304, 306-308 (C.A.2, 1986), cert den 484 U.S. 825, 108 S.Ct. 89, 98 L.Ed.2d 50 (1987), Sullivan-Weaver v. New York Power Authority, 114 F. Supp. 2d 240, 243 (S.D.N.Y., 2000), Prichard v. Ledford, 767 F.Supp. 1425, 1429 (E.D.Tenn., 1990), aff'd. 927 F.2d 605 (C.A.6, 1991), and Freeman v. Continental Technical Services, Inc., 710 F.Supp. 328, 331 (N.D.Ga., 1988); see also Platner v. Cash & Thomas Contractors, Inc., 908 F.2d 902, 905 (C.A.11, 1990), and Huebschen v. Dep't of Health & Social Services, 716 F.2d 1167, 1172 (C.A.7, 1983).

628 N.W.2d 63
 245 Mich.App. 306, 628 N.W.2d 63, 154 Ed. Law Rep. 949
 (Cite as: 245 Mich.App. 306, 628 N.W.2d 63)

FN11. Sexually-based harassment as a condition of employment refers to both quid pro quo harassment and hostile environment harassment. See Chambers, supra at 310, 614 N.W.2d 910.

Limiting the phrase "discrimination because of sex" as used in the CRA to instances of gender-based discrimination or instances where the employee is required to submit to sexually-based harassment is consistent with the Legislature's nonexhaustive statutory *322 definitions of that phrase, M.C.L. § 37.2103(i); MSA 3.548(103)(i), and the term "sex," M.C.L. § 37.2201(d); MSA 3.548(201)(d). Had our Legislature intended the CRA to protect against discrimination based on romantic74 jealousy, it could have expressly stated that intent within its statutory definitions. The Legislature did not so provide.

[20][21][22] We do not read the CRA to prohibit conduct based on romantic jealousy. Michigan courts have long held that the CRA is remedial and must be liberally construed to effectuate its ends. Reed v. Michigan Metro Girl Scout Council, 201 Mich.App. 10, 15, 506 N.W.2d 231 (1993), citing Eide v. Kelsey-Hayes Co., 431 Mich. 26, 34, 427 N.W.2d 488 (1988). ^{FN12} However, it is also fundamental that a liberal construction of an act must nonetheless be a reasonable construction that best accomplishes its purpose. See Marquis, supra. Interpreting the CRA's prohibition of discrimination based on sex to prohibit conduct based on romantic jealousy turns the CRA on its head. The CRA was enacted to prevent discrimination because of classifications specifically enumerated by the Legislature and to eliminate the effects of offensive or demeaning stereotypes, prejudices, and biases. Radtke, supra at 379, 501 N.W.2d 155; DeFlavias, supra at 440, 566 N.W.2d 661. It is beyond reason to conclude that plaintiff's status as the romantic competition to the woman Vajda sought to date places plaintiff within the class of individuals the Legislature sought to protect when it prohibited discrimination based on sex under the CRA. See In re S R, 229 Mich.App. 310, 314, 581 N.W.2d 291 (1998) (stating that nothing *323 should be read into a statute that is not within the manifest intent of the Legislature as gathered from the act itself).

FN12. We note that liberally construing a statute simply because the statute may be said to be remedial is of questionable logic. See Antonin Scalia, Assorted Canards of Contemporary Legal Analysis, 40 Case W Res L R 581, 581-586 (1990).

Plaintiff proceeded to trial on a theory of discrimination based on romantic jealousy. Plaintiff did not claim and the evidence did not establish that plaintiff was required to submit to sexually-based harassment as a condition of employment. Nor did the evidence presented at trial support a theory of gender-based discrimination. Plaintiff established, at most, that Vajda's alleged adverse treatment of plaintiff was based on plaintiff's relationship with

628 N.W.2d 63

245 Mich.App. 306, 628 N.W.2d 63, 154 Ed. Law Rep. 949

(Cite as: 245 Mich.App. 306, 628 N.W.2d 63)

EXHIBIT U to DEF'S MSJ
Page 14

Goshorn, not plaintiff's gender. Vajda may have had a romantic purpose in initially pursuing Goshorn and may, as the trial court surmised, have intended to eliminate plaintiff so that he could pursue Goshorn's affections. However, Vajda's alleged harassment was not conduct that is proscribed by the CRA because it was not gender-based. Indeed, if Vajda's motive was to win the affection of Goshorn, it would not matter if the person Vajda perceived to be standing in his way was male or female. See Freeman, supra at 331, n. 2. As such, it is evident that plaintiff's gender was not the impetus for Vajda's alleged conduct, but rather was merely coincidental to that conduct. See Succar, supra, and Huebschen, supra.

Plaintiff did not, as a matter of law, establish that Vajda's adverse treatment of him constituted a violation of the CRA.^{FN13} Accordingly, we conclude plaintiff *324 did not establish that KCC retaliated against him for opposing a violation of the CRA as 75 required under M.C.L. § 37. 2701(a); MSA 3.548(701)(a). See Chiles, supra at 484, 606 N.W.2d 398.

FN13. Plaintiff also claims defendant's conduct of denying him access to the employee assistance program, rejecting his requests for mileage reimbursements, and requesting the return of keys while he was still employed were adverse employment actions taken after defendant had knowledge of his MDCR complaints. Even assuming without deciding such conduct constituted adverse employment actions, none of those actions form the basis of a valid retaliation claim because plaintiff has not shown that he was discriminated against because of sex under the CRA.

2. Claim of posttermination retaliation

[23][24] We next consider the validity of plaintiff's claim of posttermination retaliation. MCL 37.2701; MSA 3.548(701) protects former as well as current employees. DeFlavias, supra at 440, 566 N.W.2d 661. After plaintiff's discharge, KCC administrators contacted the police when they noticed that several college-owned books and files were missing from plaintiff's office. Thereafter, plaintiff was arrested for larceny of KCC property. Because all criminal charges against plaintiff in connection with that incident were eventually dismissed, plaintiff asserted below that KCC's conduct of reporting him to the police constituted retaliation.

We conclude that plaintiff's claim for posttermination retaliation fails as a matter of law. Plaintiff acknowledged that he took several boxes of property from his office after his employment was terminated. Plaintiff did not challenge Vajda's testimony that after the boxes were seized by the police, they were found to contain hundreds of college directories and files and relatively few of plaintiff's personal items. Under these circumstances, there is not the requisite causal connection between plaintiff's protected activity of filing complaints with the MDCR^{FN14} and KCC's posttermination action. Given KCC's strong interest in *325 recovering its property, it is beyond reason to say that plaintiff's filing of the MDCR complaints was a "significant factor" in KCC's decision to report plaintiff to the police. See Jacklyn, supra, and Polk, supra. Moreover, there is no evidence plaintiff suffered any adverse employment action as a result of defendant's alleged posttermination action. Meyer, supra. In light of our conclusion that plaintiff's retaliation claim fails as a matter of law, we need not consider the merit of KCC's remaining issues challenging that claim.

FN14. As established earlier, plaintiff's filing of the MDCR complaints was the only protected activity under the CRA engaged in by plaintiff.

B. Evidentiary Matters Relating to the Breach of Contract Claim

The only issue remaining for our consideration in-

628 N.W.2d 63
 245 Mich.App. 306, 628 N.W.2d 63, 154 Ed. Law Rep. 949
 (Cite as: 245 Mich.App. 306, 628 N.W.2d 63)

volves KCC's argument that the trial court erred in excluding evidence at trial. Given our disposition of the prior issue, we need only consider this issue in the context of plaintiff's breach of contract claim.

[25][26][27] KCC argues that the trial court erred in excluding evidence of several incidents of plaintiff's work-related misconduct. A trial court's decision to admit or exclude evidence is reviewed for an abuse of discretion. Chmielewski v. Xermac, Inc., 457 Mich. 593, 614, 580 N.W.2d 817 (1998). An abuse of discretion is found only in extreme cases in which the result is so palpably and grossly violative of fact and logic that it evidences perversity of will, a defiance of judgment, or the exercise of passion or bias. Dacon v. Transue, 441 Mich. 315, 329, 490 N.W.2d 369 (1992); Hottmann v. Hottmann, 226 Mich.App. 171, 177, 572 N.W.2d 259 (1997). While the several work-related incidents cited by KCC would have been relevant to explain why its administrators developed a poor opinion of plaintiff as an employee, we cannot say that the trial court's *326 decision to exclude the evidence was palpably and grossly violative of fact and logic. Franke testified at trial that her poor opinion of plaintiff was based on her personal experiences dealing with plaintiff as well as input from other administrators. There 76 was also substantial testimony that plaintiff was uncooperative and often refused direct orders. While jurors were not apprised of all the incidents that may have led to the administrators' poor opinions of plaintiff, they heard enough evidence of plaintiff's conduct to infer that his poor job performance and inability to follow orders were the main reasons for his discharge. Given that the case involved considerable testimony on several separate incidents, the trial court acted within its discretion when it concluded that additional testimony regarding the prior events would waste the court's time and would likely confuse the jurors. MRE 403.^{FN15}

FN15. Insofar as KCC argues that the trial court erred in excluding evidence of plaintiff's resume fraud and a letter Vajda wrote to his attorney, there is no need to consider those arguments because they involve plaintiff's retaliation claim, which we have rejected.

KCC has provided no other argument in regard to the breach of contract judgment. Accordingly, we cannot say that judgment was erroneous.

III. Conclusion

In sum, plaintiff's entire retaliation claim fails as a matter of law and the trial court erred in denying KCC's motion for JNOV on that claim. The judgment for plaintiff on the retaliation claim is reversed and attorney fees and costs assessed in connection with that claim are vacated. On remand, the trial court shall enter a judgment for KCC on the retaliation claim. The *327 judgment with respect to plaintiff's breach of contract claim is affirmed.

Affirmed in part, reversed in part, and remanded for further proceedings consistent with this opinion. We do not retain jurisdiction.

Mich.App.,2001.
Barrett v. Kirtland Community College
 245 Mich.App. 306, 628 N.W.2d 63, 154 Ed. Law Rep. 949

END OF DOCUMENT